SHIELDING

Donohue, Fatally Wounded, Will Not Identify His Friend Coyle.

POLICEMAN SAW HIM SHOOT.

Both Were Engaged in Drunken Quarrel in the Street This Morning.

WOUNDED MAN HAD A KNIFE.

That is All the Prisoner Will Say, and the Police Can Discover No Motive for the Deed.

In a row between Patrick Coyle, twenty-four years of age, a brass-moulder, of Seventeenth street, and James Donohue, twenty-seven years of age, a stone-cutter, of 344 West Seventeenth street, at Twenty-third street and Ninth avenue, at 7.15 this morning, the former fired two shots at the latter from a 32calibre .evolver. One of the shots took effect in Donohue's left side, and will probably cause his death.

The wounded man was taken to the New York Hospital, where he is now lying in a precarious condition. Coyle was arrested and was arraigned in Jefferson Market Court. Magistrate Cornell held him without ball to await the result of Donohue's injuries.

The police are at sea as to the cause intimate associates for some time past. With them, at the time of the shoot-Thirty-fifth street. The three men do not enjoy a good reputation; the police claim that they are ex-convicts.

Policeman Hendricks, of the West Twentieth street station, was standing on post at Twenty-second street and Ninth avenue, when he heard a pistol shot. He ran towards Twenty-third street, where he saw a number of people gathering, and on his way was met by a small boy who told him that one man was killing another up the street.
When Hendricks was within a few feet of the corner he saw Donohue this morning on the third floor of the parochial school adjoining the Church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, in One Hundred and Fifteenth street, near Pleasant avenue.

Four hundred pupils were in the build ing at the time the fire was discovered, and it is owing partly to the fact that the little tota were kept in ignorance of the fire that a panic was averted. Policeman Bach, of the East One Hundred and Fourth street station, saw smoke issuing from the third story front window of the school building and quickly turned in an alarm.

He then rushed back to the school house, and with the assistance of the to the Third avenue railway to bid on pastor. Father A. Monselle, the janitor John Brownigg, and seven teachers got to the Third avenue railway to bid on the famous Kingsbridge franchise. His approval was made known to the Board of Aldermen at its meeting to-day.

The Kingsbridge franchise carries with it eleven miles of streets in the upper west side of the city, embracins part of Washington Heights.

The franchise was sought by both the Third Avenue and the Metropolitan Traction Company and has been a matter of contention between those two corporations for several months.
